that Fr. Brown was in the South and that no one else in the community was authorized to speak for him.

"Well, I did not go with Fr. McGlynn to St. Alphonsus' Church and therefore I do not know exactly what was said to him. Fr. Brown is the person who can speak if he wants to."

"Is it true that some St. Louis priests, in refusing to meet Fr. McGlynn at your residence, wrote very unpleasant letters?"

"I received many replies and I forget whether any of them were unpleasant or not. A person who promotes a work of charity before the public may expect criticism, but I am not discouraged. I have almost forgotten all about the Fr. McGlynn incident because I am taken up with a series of cooking lectures to be given next week." Repeated questions as to the unkind character of the letters from some of the clergy caused Mrs. Kerens to take refuge behind an alleged faulty memory. The reporter saw Fr. Bond at St. Alphonsus' Church in lieu of Fr. Brown, who is not in the city, as already stated. Fr. Bond could only say: "I did not refuse Fr. McGlynn permission to say mass in the church," a statement which could not be gainsaid because the authority to grant or withhold the privilege is vested in Fr. Brown, the pastor.

The reporter visited Rev. Fr. Waish, rector of St. Bridger's Parish, for he was named as one of those who startled Mrs. Kerens by their replies to her invitations to meet Fr. McGlynn. "I did not write to Mrs. Kerens at all," said Fr. Waish. The rector of St. Bridger's is known to be not well disposed toward Fr. McGlynn. At a banquet at the Christian Brothers' College, Fr. Waish found fault wth Fr. McGlynns for the mean things which he said of certain prelates while he was under the ban. Archbishop Kain heard Fr. Waish and, turning to him, said: "Had you been as ill-treated by persons in authority as Fr. McGlynn has been, yett would have said meaner things." Archbishop Kain has a very kindly feeling for Fr. McGlyan, for when his grace was a young priest, he went to New York, and while there entered St. Stephen's Church, of which Fr. McGlynn was pastor. Fr. McGlynn saw the young priest and insisted that he be his guest during his stay in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—It is announced by the friends of Father Thomas J. Ducey, pastor of St. Leo's, that Father Ducey has appealed to Mgr. Satolli for liberty to attend the sessions of the Lexow Committee, which Archbishop Corrigan has forbidden him to attend. Father Ducey has confirmed the story of his being forbidden by the Archbishop and the situation has become grave, in view of the probability that Father Ducey will rebel against the Archbishop's order. It it also possible that both the Archbishop and Father Ducey will be summoned before the Lexow Committee.

will be summoned before the Lexow Committee.

Archbishop Corrigan, it is said, will be invited to show a copy of the letter which he has written to Father Ducey on the subject of the Lexow Committee. It is said that Father Ducey has consulted with Archbishop Ireland and Dr. Burtsel about the matter.

"Do you recognize that the Archbishop has any right to forbid your presence at the committee meetings?" was asked Father Ducey. "I do not recognize that a bishop or any other man has the Fight to interfere with the liberty of an independent citizen, whether he be a priest or a layman, unless that man is violating the law of God, some defined law of the Christian religion or some law of the State or nation," replied Father Ducey.

The identity of the man who, it is charged by Louis F. Wolff, an artist, personated him when a mariage license was issued to Wolf and Maris C. Pabin, is still a mystery, stand is near the St. Louis Cab and Messenger Co.'s office at 115 North Sixth street.

"Last Saturday, two weeks ago," said he, "I received a call to go to 120 Lucas avenue. I don't remember the name of the woman who wanted to engage my services, but she did not get them. I supposed, of course, that she wanted me to take her out riding, but to my surprise she said that she wished me to take another man's place in getting out a marriage license for her and him. I can't think of her name, but it was 'Sabin' or something like that. I was to masquerade as Mr. Wolf. I am too old a bird to be caught in such a way, so I jumped the game as soon as it was flashed. She was a good-looking woman of about 25, who weighed somewhere near 145 pounds. She did not go to the Courthouse in my cab. In fact, she did not get of about 25, who weighed somewhere near 145 pounds. She did not go to the Courthouse in my cab. In fact, she did not get in it at all."

Maher denied a report that after deckining to act he had agreed to furnish another substitute for Wolf.

"The way I heard the story," said another hackman, "was that the woman was driven from the house by Tom. When they had gone a couple of blocks she stopped him and made the proposition that he should help her to get the license. He kicked, but said he guessed he could find a man who would consent if he were well paid. Shetold him to get the man. Tom produced the fellow, who got into the hack with her. This fellow and Tom had fixed up a scheme by which the woman was to be made to put up well and then he was to walk out of the Court House and leave her in the lurch. Both were too smart to have anything to do with getting the license through fraud, but I guess they intended to double-cross the woman, and it would have served her right. The fellow inside with her discovered that she had but little money and they jumped her."

When Maher was asked if he provided a substitute, as detailed above, he said that there was no truth in it. "I had a fare to the day."

The Sabin woman skipped before her arrest, and Chief Desmond has not yet located her.

STOLEN CLOAKS.

Two Men Under Arrest Charged With Having Sold Them.

Detectives Frese and Viehle at $ a. m. arrested Howard Phillips and Joseph W. Sheffel, allas Shefferty, two young men said to be Chicagoans, on Elm street, near Broadway, on the charge of burgiary and larceny. The prisoners are identified by Mrs. Flora Frank, who conducts a second-hand store at 522 Elm street, as the men who sold to her a couple of cloaks, which are said to have been part of the proceeds of a burglary committed at Michael Rosen's cloak factory, 804 Morgan street, a few nights singe. Six cloaks, valued at 129 each, were taken from the factory. Besides the cloaks recovered, five suits of clothes and a lot of cloth were, it is said, sold to Mrs. Frank by the prisoners, and it is alleged that this property is part of a haul made by burglars who forced the front door of William Engel's tailor shop, 109 North Bixth street, and looted the place.

When searched at the Four Courts several alleged skeleton keys and a jimmy were found in the possession of Phillips and Sheffel. Detectives Frese and Viehle at 8 a. m.

The electric car was ascending the steep grade on Wylie avenue, followed by the cable car on the same track. On reaching Fulton street the electric car stopped, but the brakes refused to work and it began sliding backward. Gripman Res on the cable car took in the situation and released his brake, allowing the car to slide back as fast as he dared, in order to break the shock which was threatened. Soon the electric car became entirely unmanageable and gained speed. The passengers on both cars were panic stricken and several leaped from the platforms before the collision occurred. Women fainted and the excitement was intense. At Logan street the cars came together with great force, derailing both and wrecking the colliding ends. Mrs. Jones was thrown against the stove in the cable car so violently that she was picked up unconscious and it is feared that she will not survive.

the difficulty between her husband and commid arose from the fact that the titer broke faith with Hedgepeth. When adgepeth retained McDonald as his attoracy, the latter informed him that for $500 a would either clear him or get him senned to a term not longer than five years, pon this statement she says her husband ifd McDonald the money, having received from his agents.

She says that Mc Donaid came to her and represented that if she would sign away her diamonds to him he would secure her husband's release. This, she says, she did, but McDonald failed to get the diamonds. A few days before Hedgepeth's trial at few days before Hedgepeth's trial at Charles, she says McDonald went to and in spite of his former assurance to the recurrent his acquittal or a sentence of more than five years, he then asked to plead guilty and accept a sentence fifteen years. reasone which caused the rupture between them.

Chief Harrigan says thereason McDonald did not get the diamonds on Mrs.Hedgopeth's order was that he had given the diamonds over into Chief of Detectives Desmond's keeping, and that when the order for them was presented to him by McDonald's partner, he feared everything was not straight and told him that he did not have the diamonds. McDonald thought then the Express company had them and brought suit against the company for their recovery.

W. E. Gary, Inspector of the insurance company, who is in the city collecting evidence against the accused parties, says that he is in possession of the facts which caused the rupture between Hedgepeth and his attorney. Marshall McDonald, and which led to Hedgepeth making a statement to Chief Harrigan about what he claimed to know of Howard and Howe's connection with the alleged swindle. Mr. Gary stated that in his opinion these facts were.

When questioned as to the probable truth of the recently published statements of both Hedgepeth and Jail Guard Armstrong Chief Harrigan spoke as follows:

"Prior to Hedgepeth's last attempt to escape from the jail he always talked freely with me about his case. He had repeatedly maked me to fix it for him so that he could plead guilty and get a sentence of about 10 years. I told him that the Adams Express Co. were the parties injured, but that if he would behave himself and not try to escape again I would see the officials of the Express company, and if they were willing to let him off with ten years I would offer no objection, but if they were not I would intercede no further for him.

"He promised to behave himself and not to try to escape. Some time after that a key was furnished him with which he opened his cell door and got out into the corridor, where he was discovered by one of the guards and locked up again. I asked his wife if she had any idea as to how he got the key, and she sald she had not, saying she had asked him how he came by it and he had refused to tell her."

W. K. varr, the inspector for the insurance company, who has been investigating the case will leave st. Louis this evening to pursue his investigations in some other locality.

Then he tapped a gas main, ran a pipe ithrough the tank and up into the store and burned the gas.

"See," he would say to his friends, "I make my own gas, and it is just as good as any in the city."

A verdant Canadian looked at the bright jet in the store, at the strange-smelling lank, and then pald Holmes £,000 for the "patent." The Canadian is said to have died of a broken heart instead of sending Holmes to the penitentiary. Holmes is believed to have effected a settlement with the gas company.

Figually novel was the druggists "artesian well." from which he obtained his water supply for the store. He said the "well" was in the basement. The city water department took no stock in this story. Men were sent to dig up the earth in Sixty-third street, along which the water mains run, to see if they had been tapped. The mains were found intact. Weeks ran along and so did the "artesian well." The water men made another attack on the mains with the same result. Ultimately they visited the scene again with spades and picks and instructions to dig all around the block if necessary to find the "well." Then it was discovered that Holmes had gone to the rear and crossed over to a north and south main in order to tap for his water supply. But he escape purshment in some way.

The drug store had not been in operation long before A. L. Jones drifted in from Northern Michigan. Mr. Jones thought the location a good one and made an offer for the store, it was accepted. The deal was closed one Saturday night, but Jones was not to take possession until the Monday following. Holmes remained in possession or other. He even kept quiet when some men came around a few days later and carted off the soda fountain, a handsome affair, worth about $1,500, but not paid for. Jones got tired finally and sold out. He is living in Auburn Park now.

In 182, when the World's Fair boom was at its zenith, Holmes was not kile. He planned for another story on his building and for a World's Fair hotel. The building at this time was supposed to be ow size had been contracted for and delivered. Much of this stuff was sold as soon as the wagons that hauled it had been driven away.

When the Toby Furniture Co. tried to collect a bill of about $400 it met with no success. Then it began a search for the goods. At first this was futile, but on payment of 500 to a negro named Pat, who had worked for Holmes, the African with an Irish name directed the searching party to a secret room, the door to which had been sealed and covered with well paper. In this room a portion of the furniture was found. The rest was discovered in another secret chamber, the only entrance to which was from the elevator. Still no prosecution.

Of course Holmes had to have a safe. He bought a big on time before his building was finished and put it a room not half completed. When the safemakers came for the money Holmes said to them: "I have none: take the safe."

The men went after it, but quickly learned that there was neither door nor window in the room large enough for the safe to pass through. Holmes' attention was called to the fact.

"Take the safe," repeated the druggist, "but I warn you not to mar the building."

The safe is there yet.

As a "flyer" Holmes started a restaurant at 702 (the drug store is at 701) and sold it to an Aurora man named Philips for $900. The summer for $21,000, and a few weeks later the top of the pile was burned in some mysterious fashion. The loss was estimated by the adjusters at $5,500. The insurance companies became suspicious. They engaged Charles B. Obermeyer, an attorney, and Thiel's detective agency to investigate. The insurance was in Campbell's name, but Holmes tried to collect as agent. The swindler's record was given to the companies, and the attorney's advice to them was to pay no money to anyone but Campbell. The latter was not produced, and the insuran

"Naturally I know a great deal of Mr. Holmes' business," she said. "I do not intend to be interviewed about it, for it is his business and no one else's. I have no doubt he will clear himself of all accusations if given a fair opportunity," and Mrs. Holmes laid particular stress upon the word fair. "Every business man has enemies, and Mr. Holmes has some who would like to overwhelm him. As for having another wife, I do not believe it. I have the utmost confidence in him. Our domestic relations have been pleasant, and so far as there being any separation I have never heard of such a thing. Mr. Holmes left the lst of January. He has been here twice since then on brief visits, and I was with him during the winter on one of his business trips to the South. We have one child, a little daughter, and have been married about nine years. Mr. Pitzel was his business trips to the South. We have one child, a little daughter, and have been married about nine years and wants. That does not look like there being trouble between us, does it? And as for other matters Mr. Holmes can answer for himself. I have nothing to add."

NEIGHBORS DID NOT LIKE HIM.

Residents of Willmette have a great deal to say about their fellow-residents, the Holmes and Belknaps families. The community is made up principally of the families of men who work in the city. Mr. Holmes fa not popular with these, nor with those who do business in, the suburb. Everyone says Holmes is a "smart" man, but of the genius "smart" which is expensive to those who have dealings with him. Mrs. Holmes weed to a slikap

"Holmes was lavish with money when he could get it. He must have made $20,000 while he was here, but I believe it is all gone. It looks to me as if Mrs. Pitzel was standing in with the scheme. One thing I know. Holmes used to give her money. You see, he frequently got drafts for considerable amounts, and as he was afraid to put his money in a bank on account of his creditors, he would have me bank it for him and then get me to draw checks for him when he needed cash. Well, I have had more than several checks come back to me indorced by Mrs. Fitzel, so he surely gave her money.

"Holmes was prone to spend money in only one direction, so far as I know. He never gambled, smoked or drank. He was the smoothest man I ever saw. Why, I have known creditors to come here raging and calling him all the names imaginable, and he would smile and talk to them and set up the cigars and the drinks, and send them away seemingly his friends for life. I never saw him angry. You couldn't have trouble with him if you tried.

"I'll give you a sample of the man. Nearly every particle of material in this building, and its fixtures was got on credit and very little for it was ever paid for. If all the writs of mechanic's lien that have been levied on this structure were pasted on these three walls, the block would look like a mammonth circus billiboard. But I never heard of a lien being collected. Holmes used to tell me he had a lawyer paid to keep him out of trouble."

Lyman came here last February and placed bu record a deed from one Bond to Lyman for 100 feet front on Rusk and Second streets. Bond got title by deed from Minie R. Williams, executed before a notary whose name was said to be Holmes. On this property Lyman began the erection of zen, who, fearing his title was clouded by Lyman's connection, began to investigate. He found that Minnie R. Williams had been working for a typewriting concern in Chicago, known as Allen & Co. She wrote, late in 1883, to her sister, Miss Anna Williams of Midlothian, Tex., to come to Chicago, that she was going to be married and go to Europe. The sister, who was a teacher in the Midlothian Academy, at once packed up and left for Chicago, leaving orders to forward her trunk in a week. No word ever came from either of the sisters. After a year the express company at Chicago notified the principal of the Midlothian School that the trunks had never been called for. Minnie R. Williams, by will, was left half a block of property in the heart of Ft. Worth, valued at $60,000, and a farm valued at $15,000. This property in the heart of Ft. lice know nothing concerning the reported murder of Miss Williams, the young type-writer. The first intimation that Miss Williams had disappeared came through an officer from Fort Worth, Tex., who came here asking the local officers to assist him in locating the girl. No trace of her was found and the officer returned to Texas. Holmes and Miss Williams lived together in a flat erected by Holmes at 701 Sixty-third street. Patrick Quinlan was the janitor of this building at the time Holmes and Miss Williams resided there. He went to Fort Worth and supervised the construction of a building in that city. He is around Chicago somewhere, but cannot be located. The people living near the flat building have no knowledge of a murder having been committed there.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- Indicaaltiply to show that the German ient is pursuing a repressive policy towards importations from the United States that in the end may call for retalia-tion. The latest evidence is contained in a report to the State Department from United States Consul Robertson at Ham-burg. He says that a movement is being set on foot by the Imperial Government look-ing to the complete exclusion of dried and evaporated apples from the United States which are found to contain more than a specified amount of zinc, supposed to have been taken up from the zinc frames on which the fruit is dried. As a result, the trade would severely suffer.

Consul suggests that fruit driers change their methods and use wooden frames, as it is all-important that articles sent from the United States to Germany should be prepared in every direction so as to offer no grounds for complaint on the part of either officers or dealers and competitors. At the same time the Consul does not admit, without further proof, the full extent, by any means, of the alleged well-advertised defects in our food products that are being claimed in Germany.

He feels convinced that our Government, upon the proper representations, will take all necessary steps for the protection of healthful and unadulterated wares of our exporters from unfair and reasonable in an necessary steps for the protection of healthful and unadulterated wares of our exporters from unfair and reasonable interference when offered for sale in the markets of Germany, and that it will use every means in its power to bring it about that any restrictions imposed upon them there are such as are actually justifiable from a sanitary standpoint, are not merely arbitrary, and are applied to similar articles when imported from other countries as well as the United States.

Enclosures sent with the report from different Consular agencies in Germany show that attacks made in the German papers on American products have extended to American seeds, clover, timothy, etc., which are supposed to have been adulterated and worthless. The Consul also transmits a complaint from an importing merchant in worthless. The Consul also transmits a complaint from an importing merchant in Hamburg against the requirement that all American small arms shall be submitted to Government test and proof before sale. He says that the additional cost of the process makes it impossible to sell American arms in competition with German arms. Inasmuch as Belgium and Great Britain saved their trade by securing German recognition of the sufficiency of tests made at their own gun shops under Government supervision, he suggests that American gunmakers combine to secure the same privileges.

NAVAL EXPINSES.

Total Amount Paid Out for the Fisca

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- The port of Paymaster-General Edwin Stewart of the navy for the fiscal year ending June 30 last is a document of unusual interest It presents a more complete exhibit of the ever been made before. The total amoun expended on account of the naval establishment for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, was $31,370,144.91, the largest item being $8,251,072 for payments on new ships in process of construction, other than labor.

One of the most interesting tables in the report is that showing the cost of maintaining in commission the various ships. The charges against this account include the pay of officers, crew and marines, pilottice, coal and all expenditure of money and material for repairs. During the period covered by the report of the Paymaster-General the cost of the United States steamship Chicago, second rate, was $310,136.60; the United States steamship Torktown, third rate, $169,070.50, and the United States steamship Ship Petrel, fourth rate, $108,502.58. These figures afford an approximate idea of the cost of maintaining vessels of the different classes. lishment for the fiscal year ending June 30 classes.

The cost of maintenance of the New York Navy Yard is $607,586.52; of the Pensacola Navy Yard, $540,431.90. These amounts include the cost of officers and clerks and material applied to the erection, repair, care and preservation of the wharves, buildings and docks. In addition to the tables of figures, the report describes the organization of the bureau and the various books and records maintained.

During the nast year the bureau has present records maintained.

During the past year the bureau has prepared carefully-drawn specifications covering a large class of stores in general use in order that contractors may have precise and accurate information 'as to the material required. It is believed that such information will secure prompt and satisfarmation will secure prompt and satismaterial required. It is believed that such information will secure prompt and satisfactory delivery of material under contracts and that the delays complained of on this account would be obviated.

Gen. Stewart refers to the benefits anticipated from the establishment of the naval supply fund. The amount appropriated for that account is so small that the bureau has moved cautiously in the matter of purchasing under it, as it is not desired to have any part of it tied up in stores that are not in constant demand. By enabling the department to keep on hand a stock of such articles constantly required and by purchasing the material in large quantities, the Government saves both time and money. Issues from this account are reimbursed from the proper appropriations.

The Cabinet waited, but Mr Herbert. The Cabinet waited, but Mr. Cleveland did not come, nor did he send any excuse. Mrs. Cleveland drove in from Woodley while the members of the Cabinet were present, but she did not bring any excuse from the President, nor offer any explanation; and from the fact that she said nothing to Private Secretary Thurber about the President's alleged spraining of an ankle, the story was not credited. The Cabinet made no attempt to transact business, and after hearing Secretary Thurber's explanation that Mr. Cleveland was "busy on his message, and had said that as there was nothing of special importance to be considered he probably would not come nto town Tuesday," the members, one by the returned to their departments.

Settling the Chippewas.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—One of problems with which Secretary Smith to deal is the settlement of the Chipper Indians in Minnesota. For more than or no communication or relation with each other."

He then discusses what he has tried to do in the way of farming in the reservation, offering every encouragement in this direction; but the results are far from satisfactory, because the Indians do not want to work. They only partially take advantage of the lumbering interests to ean their own living, and slithough there are thousand of acres of wild hay, the Indian cattle have starved because the Indians would not cut it. The Indians at White Earth have taken their allouments, but those from other reservations refuse every offer of the commission to remove thither.

Secretary Smith has declared that he will abolish the commission unless something is immediately accomplished. From the reports received the impression prevails that nothing further can be done with the Chippewas.

President Cleveland will so word his order extending the civil service classification to employes in the internal revenue service as to make it effective after Jan. 1, and give time for the displacement of Republicans. Serious complications may arise between the United States and Germany if it shale shown that that country caused Demark to prohibit the importation of American cattle.

Japan Deelines Mediation by the United ftetes Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.-The State Department has received a cable reply from Japan, through Minister Dun at Tokio, to the United States' suggestion of mediation The Japanese Legation at Washington has also received from the Foreign Office in Japan a cable stating that the reply had been made and giving its terms. Both were eceived here Sunday afternoon.

The cable to Secretary Gresham is ac ompanied by unusual dignity and formalcompanied by unusual dignity and formativity, in having the imperial sanction of his majesty, the Emperor of Japan. It is rarely that the Emperor speaks in diplomatic negotiations, so that his action in this case is evidence of Japan's desire to express its approbation of the course of the United States. The message is in two parts, the first giving imperial expression of good-will and saying that the success of the Japanese army had been such that China should approach Japan directly. The second part is more directly from Minister Dun, and expresses the view of the Japanese Foreign Office to submit a direct proposition if it could be made by China through Minister Dun.

The cable to Minister Kurino is substantially the same as the foregoing. The fact that the replies were received Sunday and were not given publicity until now is in part explained by the fact that they were in cipher and of such, inportance that a casual summary of them was not deemed advisable. ity, in having the imperial sanction of his

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- A ne and important situation is now presented by Japan's proposition that China make a direct offer through United States Minister Dun at Tokio. This makes Mr. Dun the interesting center of negotiations from this time forward unless the United States shall decline to allow him to act as the direct representative of China in submitting an offer. This is not anticipated, however. It is said that the usual course would be for the State Department to notify Mr. Dun and also Minister Denby at Peking that they were at liberty to transmit from China to Japan such direct peace overtures as the former desired to make. It then would be for China to formulate its offer to Minister Denby. In turn he would transmit it to Minister Dun at Tokio, as a direct offer, and not as an intermediary offer through the United States. The State Department undoubtedly would be apprised of the action of Messrs. Denby and Dun, but would not be the channel of their communication, as it is the basis of Japan's new proposition that the offer come direct a direct offer through United States Minmunication, as it is the basis of Japan's new proposition that the offer come direct from China and not through the mediation of the United States.

It is pointed out that Minister Dun's skill as a diplomat has scope for conspicuous service in terminating the war.

A warrant was issued against William H Reed, a driver for D. Crawford Dry Goods Co., at Broadway and Franklin avenue, charging him with embezzling $7.50 last Saturday. Reed lives at 2222 Walnut street. It is alleged that he delivered C. O. D. Later in the day the warrant was with drawn.

Discharge of Veterans.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- Commander-in-Chief T. G. Lawler of the G. A R. and his Adjutant-General, C. C. Jones, arrived here to-day to present to the President the resolution adopted by the National Encampment at Pittsburg protesting against the discharge of veterans of the late war from Government positions. President Cleveland did not come in from his country place at Woodley to-day, so that it is doubtful if the Grand Army delegates will be able to see him. If not, the resolution will be left with Private Secretary Thurber at the White House.

Gen. Lawler says he does not intend to make any speech, but will be prepared to answer any questions if the President desires information. He is fortified with data upon the discharges of veterans from their positions in the departments, collected by the local posts of the G. A. R.

War.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- An idea of the frauds that were perpetrated in Alabama in the attempt to defeat Kolb was given by M. W. Howard, Congres lect, who said:

"There are sixty-six counties in Alabams and sixteen of them are known as the black belt, because there are 65,000 voters in it and nearly 50,000 of them are negroes We carried nearly every white county, because in the white counties there are honest elections. As we had learned their tricks in the previous election we planned to keep them from cheating in the black counties. We urged the negroes in these counties not to register. As a result, only 3,000 voters registered. Then we thought we had them, because we thought they would not dare roll up the count if the registration books gave them the lie. But it's mighty hard to beat an Alabama Democrat. In the sixteen black counties the Democrats had absolute charge of the election machinery and they rolled up 48,000 negro majority for their candidates in the black belt. In Wilcox County the registration was less than 800, yet Wilcox gave the Democratic candidate 6,000 majority. In one precinct where we have the affidavits of five white men that the polling place was not even open, they gave 371 votes for the Democrat and one for us. How generous they were to us! In Dallas County we managed to get the registration list after election, and found that 2,300 voters were registered, yet Dallas gave the Democrats (yet Dallas gave the Democrate yicket against Gen. Wheeler, in the Eighth Alabama District, is at the Populist headquarters here, fresh from the conference of Kolb men, at which it was determined to issue the manifesto published to-day. We carried nearly every white county, be cause in the white counties there are hones

WHAT KOLB SAYS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 21.—In discussing his manifesto announcing his intention to qualify as Governor of Alabama, Reuben Kolb denounced Gov. Jones' occupancy of the office he holds as usurpation, declared that the people of the State had merely tolerated him for two years, and now he (Kolb), proposed to offer them an opportunity to stop this usurpation. He said in conclusion:

"No man who knows the feeling of the present Legislature believes for a moment that it, will do anything to show an orderly and full contest of the election of Oates, as the constitution requires it, to do. The most sacred rights of the people have been outraged, and all that Jones means is if they do anything to right themselves he will shoot them to death. I know the people better than he does, and I know what their feelings are and what their determination is. They have been cut down to the last point of endurance. They don't want any advice from me or anybody else. No, they know. THE refusal of Gov. Altgeld to inter-Aere with the execution of George Centril, the East St. Louis murderer, renders valid the sentence of death imposed on a plea of guilty of murder in the first degree. It has been urged that the plea of the accused should not have been accepted and that he should have been forced to trial, but few will quarrel with the result. The murder was exceptionally brutal and the guilt of the man was clear. The State has been saved the cost of his trial and all possibility of his escape by technicality has been avoided. The action of the Judge and the Governor is in gratifying contrast with the weak sentimentalism which is disposed to shield bloody murderers. It is in sharp contrast with the practice of the criminal courts of this city which permits a plea of guilty to act not merely as a mitigation of crime, but a practical acquittal.

Cheaper Bread To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Post-Dispatch is doing a noble thing in its crusade against the high price of bread. If "he who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is a benefactor of mankind," then he who makes it possible to buy two loaves of bread for the price formerly paid for one is not only a benefactor of mankind, but a champion of the poor and struggling. What is charity—that is, the mere act of giving—compared with a work so comprehensive and farreaching in its beneficial results as you have attempted? bread If "he who makes two blades of reaching in its beneficial results as you have attempted?

But do you expect that you will be able to persuade the bakers to reduce the price of bread? If so, you are mistaken. Man rarely, if ever, voluntarily relinquishes an advantage once obtained over his fellow-man. The Post - Dispatch has pointed out the preliminary remedy, viz., to compel bakers by ordinance to stamp the weight on their loaves. The only rational deduction to be drawn from the showing made by the Post-Dispatch is that the people are charged 5 cents for a loaf of bread that can be sold at a profit for less than half that sum. The conclusion is that if the city can make bread for 11-3 cents per pound, and cover all expenses, that others can do the same. The remedy is simple. Let a few honest men of means form a company, manufacture bread and sell it at a price just sufficient to cover the cost of production, with a fair-rate of interest on the money invested. The problem would then be solved.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19, 1894.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If one-half the cry of fraud as alleged by party leaders, defeated candidates or private individuals be true, then there is an imperative necessity for the opening of the ballot boxes and a recount of the ballots cast at our recent city election.

All the parties to this cry claim sincerity and seem to anxiously desire investigation and a fair count. Then in the name of justice, why not gratify so reasonable a request and begin the inquiry at once?

The statement so frequently made that the candidates and standing committees of both parties have no money for such a contest would, close upon the heels of a general election, but it is in no way a justification for a failure or delay of the investigation. On the contrary, it is more urgently needed, as the sacredness of the ballot and good government demand that the right of the people to cast an unbought and untrammeled vote be preserved at all hazards in this city and State; that all despoliers of the people's liberties shall be known and severely sunished, and that through such action ballot-box stuffers shall have due warning that outraged justice will follow every violator of law and in due time lay its heavy hand upon them. Inclosed please find $1, and allow me to suggest that the columns of your publicaphirited paper be thrown open for a popular subscription to aid in this work, that the fair name of our clift and state may be vindicated and all rascals, whoever they are and wherever found, may be exposed, to the end that all corrupt methods and unlawful use of money at any election hereafter shall cease.

da Rohan as Viels in "Twelfth Night" Sarden's New Play.

It is a matter of congratulation that Mr. the differences will be drawn out soon better in the presentation of "Twelfth Night" last evening at the Olympic than it did in "The Last Word." Some of the new faces in the cast added strength, while those who had been seen before seemed better fitted in their parts. Miss Rehan was largely in evidence although that overwhelming predominance of the night previous was not in evidence atthough that overwhelming predominance of the sight previous was not separent.

Ar. Duly's edition of 'Twelfth Night' differs from the original version of Shakspeare more than any which has ever been produced. He has luggiled it to suit himself—and presumably Miss Rehan—with the result that there are some who reseat his attempt at improvement over the great bard. But be that as it may, the 'Twelfth Night' given us by this manager-player was a finished and clever performance. The incidental music which has been interpolated adds to the modern interpolated adds to the modern interpolated. No better illustration of the care Mr. Daly takes to round out his productions could be cited than that those of the chorus who were provided with guitars really played them when they were expected to. This is rerely seen on the stage.

Miss Rohan's interpretation of Viola did not differ much from the traditional one, aside from the changes in the lines whe perfect, her acting finished in the extreme. Her grace ef movement, her gestures, her expression, her little mannerisms made one feel the true artistic merit of her characterization. Yet there seemed lacking the magnetism of personality which makes an audience sympathize and allow itself to be carried along with the actress. Hers seemed nowed to voice of the head liers seemed more of a voice of the head.

that his presence on the stage was halled with delight.

Mr. John Craig-as Orsino completely overcame the poer impression he made in "The Last Word." His fine, dignified impersonation of the noble, unrequited lover was in the nature of a real surprise. While there was room for improvement in Mr. George Clarke's Malvollo he, too, appeared to better advantage. Clarke's Malvollo he, too, appeared to better advantage.

Air. Sidney Herbert has hardly had an opportunity as yet to display his taient. The opening night the drammist sent the opening night the drammist sent him off to kussia, and in the role of Sebastian he was supposed to be drowned during the larger portion of the play. He is one of the Invertee of Mr. Daly's old New York company, and will have better opportunities later in the week.

1.loyd paubling was unusually graceful as the clown, and is possessed of a good voice as well. Aiss Sibit Carliste's Olivia was not especially good, and an even more severe stricture might be made upon the Marie of Mrs. Lilly Post. She did not succeed in bringing out the real comedy in the part.

Te-night Miss Renan will appear as Rosalind in "As You Like It."

SARDOU'S "GESMONDA."-The recent roduction of Sardon's new drama, monda," at the Renaissance Theater in Paris, has been pronounced by the French critics as a wonderful success. The play was written especially for Bernuardt, and the great actress renewed her trumps in the title role. "M. Sardou," it is declared, has written a third act in this place, which is the most impassioned and gramatic of anything he has yet done. Consequently Bernhardt shone effulgently.

The play tells the story of the love of a birdkeeper's valet for the noble Gesmonda. He saves her son from a lion's pit on the mother's premise to wed him. She refuses him after the performance of this task and hides ha convent. She seeks relief from her yow through the church, but is refused. Her lover goes into the war with the Turks and becomes a great hero. He returns and asks again for his bride.

The Famous Train Robber Taken to the Penitentiary.

Marion C. Hedgepeth, whose sentence was affirmed by the Supreme Court, was taken to the Penitentiary on the 7:55 a. m. Missouri Pacific train, in charge of Mar-shal S. C. Noland of the Supreme Court, shal S. C. Noland of the Supreme Court, to serve his twenty-five years for robbing the Adams Express Co.'s car on a Frisco train on the night of Nov. 20, 1891, near Glendale Station in St. Louis County. Hedgepeth's wife was at the Four Ceuris to see her husband off. She took leave of him in the office of the Chief of Police and the parting was very affecting. She kissed him as she bid him good-bye and wept bitterly. Hedgepeth was visibly moved and the stern officers of the law who witnessed the scene for the moment forgot the desperate character of the man before them and allowed their sympathies to go out to him and his afflicted wife. Assistant Chief Reedy sent a detail of officers with Marshal Nolan to the Union Station. The detail was composed of Detectives Tracy, Walsh. Tebeau and Kigg. The party left the Four Courts at 7:49 a. m. and was driven to the station in the parrol wagon. Hedgepeth is looking fairly well. considering his long confinement in jail. He was so heavily manacled that it was with difficulty that he could walk.

Jerre Hogan, a tomale manufacturer, and in employer of his, named Oscar Miller, were arraigned before Judge Morris on the charge of disturbing the peace, but the evi-dence showed that the defendants were simply intoxicated and had not disturbed the peace. It was a case in which Officer dence showed that the defendants wer simply intoxicated and had not disturbed the peace. It was a case in which Office Hill of the Central District was deceive by the appearance of things. The condition of Hogan's face would indicate tha Miller or somebody else had attempted to murder him. When arrested his face was a mass of blood, cuts and bruises, and Officer Hill thought Miller and Hogan had been fighting. The story brought out in the Police Court was that Hogan and Miller went out for a good time Tuesday night and the former got knocked out completely. Miller was a little better off, and he started to take Hogan home. On the route Hogan insisted on falling headlong to the sidewalk, and Miller, losing his footing, would fall on top of him. Then Miller would drag Hogan over the pavements to get him on his feet, and in this way Hogan's face was bruised. In front of the City Hall Hogan ook one of these headers, and while Miller was struggling to get him on his feet the officer arrested them. Judge Morris disharged them.

FOUR COURTS LEVITY.—A noteworthy paradox was witnessed at the trial of Pat Condon for the killing of John Schempp. A night session of the Criminal Court was held on the last day of the trial, to finish the case, which was given to the jury late at night, and the court took a recess, to await the verdict. It was nearing midnight. The prisoner was seated in the chair which he had occupied for the three days during which he had been tried for his life. He was alone, his attorney having gone home, having done all in his for his life. He was alone, his attorney having gone home, having done all in his power for his client, and had left his fate in the hands of the twelve men who were then in the jury room, which adjoins the court, and whose voices could be indistinctly heard discussing the disposition of the case. Seated in the jury box, which had lately been vacated by the jury, was a group composed of court attaches and a few others, who were laughing and joking, their levity being in striking contrast to the gravity of the occasion. Their conduct, however, was not caused by want of feeling, but because of their familiarity with such scenes.

Raite in Tunnels.

It is a singular fact that rails in tunnel last only shout one-third as long as upon the open track, although subjected to exactly the same amount of wear. Nearly all the fael used in locomotives contains subplur, which combustion and the action of the exwhich combustion and the action of the ex-haust steam in the smoke stack changes to free sulphuric acid. This issues from the stack often in as great quantities as five pounds an hour, but is soon dissipated in the open air and does little harm. In a tunnel, however, where the steam cannot escape, it condenses rapidly on the rails and leaves them subject to the direct action of the acid.

The Prosperous and Conservative Chem ical National of New York : he Vietim-Shortage so Carefully Hidden, Sant Examiner Kimball Failed to Find Anything Enspicious-Ris Later Investigation and Tait's Breakdown and Confession.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Chemical National Bank, one of the most prosperous and most conservative institutions in the country has for the first time in half a century been made the victim of a defaultamount involved, as far as known, is $15,175. The money was appropriated by John Tait, the paying teller. The matter is peculiar, inasmuch as the officials of the bank declare that not a cent of the money went to Tait's own use. The proof of this is that he could have taken a million as well as a few thousands had he been so of this is that he could have taken a million as well as a few thousands had he been so inclined.

Three-fourths of the sum, they say, he lent to personal friends, taking no collateral and only in a few instances receiving as much as an I. O. U. for the money handed out. The rest, it is said, is due to errors made by Tait in paying out cash. It is estimated by President Williams and Cashier Quinlan that the excessive worry caused by these loans reduced Tait to such a condition that he was hardly responsible for his actions and made many mistakes. Although the first loans were made more than a year ago, the shortage having been carefully hidden, was not discovered by William H. Kimball, the National Bank Evaniner, when he inspected the bank officially last May, but it was he who later unearthed these peculiar transactions, having in a private capacity been employed to look over the books.

Tait, who is nearly 50 years old, has been in the bank employ for twenty-eight years, having first been a messenger. His salary of 43,500, with a bonus of 10 per cent of that sum every Christmas, has enabled him to support his family in nice style at Mount Kisco. It is known that he never speculated and that he lived within his means.

Although it could not be learned to whom he made the loans, a check made out by C. H. Babcock on the Twelfth Ward Bank for $13,250, was found among his cash on the first day of his examination. Babcock is said to be Tait's brother-in-law, and is a contractor in this city. The bond given by Tait is only for $5,000. Tait will not be prosecuted.

Wm. H. Kimball, bank inspector, was any learned in a private capacity to examination.

and is a contractor in this city. The bond given by Tait is only for $5,000. Tait will not be prosecuted.

Wm. H. Kimball, bank inspector, was employed in a private capacity to examine the affairs of the bank. After Mr. Kimball had counted the cash, Tait, it is said, took $10,000 of the money, and handing it to the examiner's assistant, said it should be counted again. Mr. Kimball's attention being drawn to this, his suspicions that all was not right were confirmed. He determined to say nothing, but to recount the cash items the following day. This he did, and, much to his surprise, the Bahcock check for $12,250 had disappeared. This made a total shortage of $15,715, the rest being accounted for in the errors natural in the business.

When Tait's attention was called to this he stammered out some excuse, but it would not do. Mr. Kimball asked him to prepare another proof sheet. He tried to do so, but finally declared that he was altogether too nervous and sick to do so. Then he went to Cashier Quinlan and told him the same think, and was advised to take his time. Exminer Kimball left him in the bank at 5:30 o'clock, Cashier Quinlan having promised to be on hand at that hour. When the cashier walked in he found Tait, his head bowed on his desk, looking the picture of abject misery. He said he was unable to make a proof sheet, and then he blurted out that he wished Mr. Quinlan would accompany him to President Williams' house, as he had something important to communicate.

They found him at home. The interview that followed, President Williams said, affected him as much as it did the paying teller. Bursting into tears. Tait confessed teller.

that followed, President Williams said, affected him as much as it did the paying teller. Bursting into tears, Tait confessed that he had done wrong, but so crushed and humiliated was he, and so badly did his mental powers seem to be impaired, that he could make no satisfactory explanation. Admitting that he had wrong-tully used the bank's money, he declared over and over again that he had not profited one cent by so doing, nor had he used a dollar for his own benefit. Friends who were hard pushed for eash had come to him, he said, and had urged him to lend money to them. Believing in their honesty, and never doubting that they would repuy him, he handed over the bank's mone in sums ranging from $190 to $1,000.

MARRIAGES AMONG THE INDIANS.

In New Mexico They Discord Wives and T. he New Opes at Pleasure. WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 .- Capt Levi F. Burnet, 7th Cavalry, Acting Indian Agent at Mescaleero, N. M., in a report to Commissioner Browning sums up an evil among Indians of that agency and to prevail to a greater or less extent among all Western Indians, and more especially among those still in a savage state. He says:

especially among those still in a savage state. He says:

"Another cause of much trouble on this reservation is the frequent marriages among the Indians. It often occurs a man will get thred of his wife after being married a few months, and will then leave her or send her home to her relatives. This may occur several times with the same persons, so that a man may have three or four wives and the woman as many husbands, all yet living. Some times the husband ill treats his wife and she runs away to her parents. They often make up and live together again. Several cases have occurred during the past year where parents have induced a man to marry their girl, aged, perhaps, not over 13 or 14 years, for the sole purpose of keeping her out of school. It usually happens that the parties soon separate, the girl returning to her husband. This causes serious quarrels. I do all I can to induce these persons to live together when once they are married, but there is no way of compelling them to do "Polygamy is practiced to some extent

"Polygamy is practiced to some extent Twelve Indians have each two wives and one has three wives. I advise against this on all occasions, but they do not like any person to interfere with such things. I do not see how it can be prevented as it is an old custom."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 21 .- T. E Mckay, for many years passenger agent for the Burlington road, has resigned, and early in December will sail for the Orient, where he will assume the duties of general passenger agent for the Pacific Mail and the Occidental and Oriental Steamship Cos., the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Northwestern Railroad Cos., for India. China and Japan. His headquarters will probably be in Yokohama. The companies for which McKay is agent will act together in handling passenger traffic from the Orient, and the eneroachment of the Canadian Pacific in this class of travel is the main reason for sending him to Yokohama.

LOOKS LIKE WAR.

Expagosa Ready for Sea at 0 :er.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 31.—The Mexical warship Zaragosa, which is in the dry docks here undergoing repairs, will be sent south as soon as possible to look out for Mexico's interests on the west coast in case of war with Guatemala. The work on the Zaragosa was proceeding in a most leisurely manner, when orders were received to get her roady for sea immediately. This is in anticipation that Mexico expects trouble with Guatemala.

WHAT EZETA SAYS.
CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. L.—Gen. Ezeta says Mexico could gain nothing by a war with Guatemala. The difficulties which relate to the boundary will all be settled diplomatically, and a delegation from Guatemala is now on its way to Mexico via San Francisco.

THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 21:-Discussing the prospect of war between his country and Guatemala, Felip Berriozabel, the Mexican Consul in this city, said to-day: "The dispute between my country and Guatemala is of long standing. It arose in 1823 over the boundary line in the Country and Guatemala is of long standing. It arose in 1823 over the beundary line in the Country and Guatemala. The river there is a national boundary between the two countries, but the Guatemalans have claimed territory on the Mexican side of the river, a claim which my country is not disposed to grant. During all these years there has been more or less lawlessness and friction in that section of the country and both sides have had grievances, to settle which a commission was appointed several years ato. The commission was composed of delegates from both countries and it finally arrived at a decision eminently satisfactory to all and making the river the boundary line. Indemnity claims were not all settled, but the main points of dispute were and we considently expected that a final adjustment of the discontent had been secured. Everything was spoilt, however, by the action of the Government of Guatemala, which refused to stand by the settlement effected by the commission. Then the Guatemalans came over to the Mexican side, dispossessed the actitlers of their homes, and took possession themselves.

"This was more than the Mexican Government could bear and troops were immediately ordered to the frontier. The very announcement of this decision on the part of Mexico had the effect of making the Guatemalan raideers has the further own side of the river and, while troops will certainly be sent down there and kept there until this trouble is finally settled in order to protect the settlers. I don't think the matter will go any further." Guatemala, Felip Berriozabel, the Mexican nsul in this city, said to-day: "The dis hold of me. I got away from him and ran into the other room. I was sleeping in the same bed with Anna. He had an ax in his hand at the time. Brother John was sleeping in the room that I ran into. I tried to wake him, but found he was dying. Brother Thomas started to come into the room, and I opened the window and jumped out and ran around to the door and looked in the house. I found my mother was dead; brother Thomas was standing in the middle door with a knife in his hand and opening the front of his shirt. The knife found by Thomas' body is the knife he had at the time I looked into my mother's room. The lamp was overturned on the floor and the carpet burning. I threw a bucket of water on the fire and brother Thomas told me to teave and go away. After going into brother John's room I heard a lick, and heard my slister scream. He came home about 8 o'clock and acted about as usual until about 10 o'clock, when he complained of his head. He remained up after the rest of us had gone to bed. About 10 o'clock brother Thomas came to the bed myself and sister were sleeping in and choked me. Sister screamed and, brother John got out of, hed and took Thomas away. Later Thomas asked me if he had hurt me. He said he was not feeling well. He had a wild, unnatural look. About 10 o'clock we away has been acting strange at intervals ever since. Brother Thomas was standing in the middle door with a knife in his hand when I threw the water on the fire. He started toward me and told me to leave. We don't keep the ax in the house. The drummers, who flock to St. Louis in the spring and fall furnish profitable employment to a set of individuals in the way of carrying their satchels and sample cases around town. No one ever heard of the Beau Brummel tagged travelling salesman carrying sample cases with him when he comes in to do business. That delightful occupation is left to the carrier he picks up around his hotel. A half dozen or so of these may be noticed in the vicinity of the big down-town hotels during the season, when the drummers come to town. of having the ballot-boxes opened. The letter was referred to the Executive Committee. hills the organization was so ordered that it can be continued hereafter, it has special reference to the investigation of frauds in the last election. In view of this fact and of the prominence that has been given to the alleged non-partisauship of the organization a few points of interest have been raised. The first president, Hon. Nathan Cole, is an active working kepublican and by the p-an of organization is chairman ex-officient to consist of four Democrats and four Republicans, appointed by himself. He will therefore be able, if so disposed, to give his party a majority in the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee, with its five Republicans and four Democrats, is given power to elect all members, a most unusual function outside of closely organized commercial corporations. It will be the fault of the majority of this Executive Committee if it admits to membership a majority of Democrats and thus lossecontrol of the next President, who, according to the plan, is to be chosen after each November election. The Committee of Public Safety is limited to a membership of 101.

SARASON'S MARRIAGES.

In April Last He Was United to Lens Susein.

Harris Sarason took out a license Monday Sarason is said to have taken unto himse if o less than eleven wives before he chos speak English, but her friends in explaining her unwifely demeabor told a rather remarkable story.

Sarason's wife died, they said, on Dec. 28, 1838, and he decided to marry next time a beautiful young girf. Remembering that in his native town, korno, in Russia, whence he had come here four years before, there was a very pretty girl named Susein, he decided to get her if possible. He found that she had already come to Sattimore and he induced her to come here to murry him. Her pareats said she had come here expecting to marry a rich and handsome voung man of about 30. When she gazed on Sarason, a long whistered school toacher, easily 51, she declared she would have nothing to do with him. It was said that he induced her to get married by the Justice, though, on the pretence that such a tie did not bind them in their faith.

She never returned to him but, according to gossip, he has never been without a wife since. Justice Mooney says he must have married some other girl between Misss sussein and Miss kantarowitz as a man named Finkelstein eame to him one day and wanted a writ of replevin against Sarason for some property which he frinkelstein) said delonged to a young lady friend of his whom Larason had garried a short time previous, but had subsequently been separated from.

Whether pretty 18-year-old Lenn Sessin died or was divorced from Sarason is not known. He could not be found to explain. It is supposed she has gone back to Baltimore. Finkelstein could not be located either to verify Judge Manning's story.

SALE OF PLAYERS.

League Magnates May Stop the Commerce in Stars.

PRANK SHUGART WILL BE EXCHANGED FOR TOM BROWN.

George Miller Is Also on the Block-Von der Ahe Discusses the Bose Ball Situstion-Comiskey a Magnate-Fitzsimmons Explains How Con Riorden Met His Death-General Sport.

The National League at its annual meet discussed the advisability of stopping the selling of players, and it will probably acted on at the spring meeting. Presi dent Von der Ahe said Tuesday that much sition has developed to the practice and many magnates expressed themselve to the effect that it had done the game more harm than good. "I cannot see why it should be abolished," said he. "If one club has a man whom it doesn't want and club has a man whom it doesn't want and another club is willing to pay a fair price for him, I see no reason why they should not make a deal which both consider for their best interests. Without the power to purchase players, a tail-end organization would be at a disadvantage in getting tai-ent during the season. Baltimore got-to-the front by the judicious purchase of players. The Western and Eastern League players cannot be drafted until the close of the season. So what can a manager do to strengthen unless he buys National League players or goes to the weak associations? The present arrangement is the life of the strong Western and Eastern leagues. A National League club can get one or more of their players after the season is over by paying $500 apiece for them, but they are protected from being raided, as was the custom up to 1894. Both the Western and Eastern leagues pay the National League $2,000 each a year for this protection.

"The equal distribution of the gate receipts between the home and visiting clubs meets with my approval, and so does the discontinuance of the system of reserving 10 per cent of the gate money for the League and Louisville contributed about $1,900 in 1894. Each club will now have to pay its proportionate share of the expenses of the parent body. This, we estimate, will be $1,800 each. The Louisville club received $5,000 last year in dividends from the fund to which it paid only $1,900. This was an injustice to the New York. Philadelphia and Baltimore clubs, which led the list. There were four clubs which tuned in less than the Browns. I paid in a little over $3,000, and was close behind nother club is willing to pay a fair price in a little over $3,000, and was close behind several others.

"The twelve-club league is a certainty for years, and I think until the expiration of its term in 1901. Louisville is hustling for youngsters, and all the weaker clubs will get a move on themselves. The Philadelphia, New York and Boston clubs wanted the receipts divided on a 40 and 60 per cent basis, the home club getting the latter end. We would not have it, because the visiting club is an equal attracion, and therefore entitled to half the money taken in.

therefore entitled to half the money taken in.

These three clubs and the Pittsburgs don't make money in the West, because they refuse to play Sunday games. The others don't kick. The St. Louis club is not opposed to standing by itself. Hard times, hard luck and bad weather operated against Western clubs last year, but we may have fortune smile on us in 1885, and the East may have a tale of woe. The League was justified in disciplining Barnie. Buckenberger and Pfeffer. They were traitors. We do not treat them as rivals.

"Neither Miller nor. Shugart will wear a St. Louis uniform in 1885, if I can trade them to advantage. A deal, which I expect will be closed this week, is on between the Louisville club and myself. Yes, Shugart is the man McCloskey is after. I will not deny that Tom Brown figures in it. If it goes through we will get two men for Shugart. Clarkson is another member of the team whose habits are not good. I will have other deals to report probably within thirty days."

COMIEKRY A MAGNATE.

"Cap" Is New the Owner of the St. Pau Franchise.

Comiskey will be the captain owner and probably the first admitted to the Western League. The following players, who were in last year's Sioux City team, are at Comiskey's call: Camp. O'Rourke, Kraus, Holihan, McAuley, "Lefty" Marr, Boyle (Jack's brother), and Killen. Comiskey recogbrother), and Killen. Comiskey recog-nizes the unpleasant fact that age and ill-health have impaired his playing, and has health have impaired his playing, and has become a magnate in a strong organization with a splendid future. If he can give St. Paul a team of "Old Browns," Charlie's poffers will be filled to overflowing. He has a valuable franchise and a golden opportunity. All he needs is a good team, and his experience as a captain and manager leads his St. Louis admirers to believe that he will get around him a 'ton-noten augure."

The present is the annual meeting of the Congress. Every big race track on the Western circuit is a member of the organization. Before he left the city Secretary Gwynne said he thought the stake programme for the spring meeting at the Fair Grounds next year would be fixed up inside of the next ten days. ks. President Rolla Wells recognizes how important it is to have the programme issued as soon as possible. After the Turf Congress meeting the racing stewards will get together and consider the matter.

Oircumstances Connected With Riordan's Death Minutely Detailed.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 21.-Bob Fitzsimmon is playing this week at the Lycoum Theater, in this city. To-night he handed the following communication to the Post-Dispatch correspondent:

I would like to explain to the the public the circumstances connected with the death of my sparring partner Con Riordan, at unfortunate result more than I can. But so peen published, many of which condemn me for using too much force, that I must in justice to myself correct some of the mis-In the first place, I did not strike him with

"my right arm blow," which is said to be such a terrible blow. When the time came for me to go on the stage that night I noticed that Riordan had been drinking, but he seemed to be able to take care of himself. Capt. Glori fatreduced us, and we shool hands and went to work. I hustled him across the stage, feinting with one hand and then the other, but not touching him. He across the stage, feinting with one hand and then the other, but not touching him. He made a pass at me, and I jumped back. Then I closed with him again and touched him lightly with my left. The glove rested partly on his jaw and partly on his chest. It was a very light blow indeed. He reached for me with his right and left, which I avoided by jumping back. That was after I had touched him. That is positive proof that it was not my blow that knocked him out, for a man does not feel much like leading twice for me after I have landed a knockout blow. After he led for me I was first going to close in with him again when I saw him scowl and press his hands to his chest, at the same doubling over as if in pain. He turned his head towards Capt. Glori and said. "Call time." I put my hands down in disgust, for I knew he was faking. Then he straightened up again, and was putting up his hands, when his legs becan to wobble, and he sat down on the stage and thea fell over bactward. He looked up at me and smiled. The spectators began to his and yell "fake." I has very much disgusted and picked him up and carried him out into the wings. I thought he was fooling all the time, for I knew I had not hit him hard enough to hur a fiel. I sat him upon a chair and went again upon the stage and had a round with Dunfee. While I was sparring the property boy be-again upon the stage and had a round with Dunies.

While I was sparring the property boy began to take off Rierdan's gloves, but he shoved him away, saying: "Don't take them off. I've got to go on again. Anyway, I am no more good for this time." I was sparring the second round with Dunies when Riordan fell off the chair and began to froth at the mouth. He died five hours later. He died from apoplexy. Truly I can say that I was not in the slightest degree responsible for his death. I touched him but once, and that lightly, with the back of my left hand. I did not pusich him at all, and surely did not strike him with my right hand. I feinted with it once, intending to draw him out and cross counier, but did not strike him.

That is the true story of what occurred that night. Since Riordan's death we have learned that he was drinking at the bar ten minutes before he went on the stage. Then he went to the thaster and was vomiting. learned that he was drinking at the bar ten minutes before he went on the stage. Then he went to the theater and was vomiting just as we were called. I did not know that at the time. He teomiplained of pains in his heart that afternoon and when he went on the stage his face had a biusin tinge. It was either heart disease of apoplexy that caused his death. ROBERT FITZSIMMONS.

No Decision Rendered. St. Johns, New Brunswick, Nov. 21.-A big ST. Johns, New Branswick, Nov. but now it has decided to grapple with the Bell concern right in Chicago and reap for itself some of the enormous profits which for so long have been pouring into the coffers of the telephone monopoly.

That the backers of the Harrison company are in earnest there is no doubt. They consist of such men as W. R. McMillan of the Philadelphia Traction Co.; P. B. A. Widener and George Elkins of Philadelphia; Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, brother to George Elkins; Wm. C. Whitney, the ex-cabinet official; Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis; Wm. But the Harrison company is not the only one which is to oppose the Bell company in St. Louis. In fact there are two others, already in the field. Cquncilman Cullinane introduced a bill into the Council Tuesday evening for one of them. The promoters of the new company are J. A. Schultz, Wm. J. Kurtz, Thomas J. Ward, J. Ricord Gradwell, Joseph M. O'Shea, Andrew J. Haley, Louis J. Oswald and T. J. Hennessey. It is proposed to furnish telephones to business houses for $30 per year, and to place them in residences for $48 per year. The city is to be given free the use of a number of the telephones, not to exceed forty. Mr. Kurtz is connected with a company which put in a telephone service in Decatur, Ill. Brilliant Nuptials to Be Performed at St. Alphonsus' Church.

OF THE BRIDE.

Otto Gordan of New York-Wedding Samuel Gordon - Nuptials Uniting J. Russell Moore and Miss Jeanneite B. Johnson-Other Marriages.

One of the most fashionable and brillian events of the season will be the nuptials of Miss Isabelle de Mun Walsh, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius S. Walsh, to Mr. Charles Louis Palms of Detroit, will be celebrated this evening.

The bride is one of the most beautiful girls in society, her golden hair, exquisite complexion and dark eyes, united with a st gracious and fascinating manner, being rarely found in one so young. Miss Walsh is a representative of one of the oldest and most prominent families in St. Louis, while the bridegroom is a member of mail of honor, the bridemaids being Misessanna Bang, Tillie Dieckride, Lydis D'Conch and Belle Russeil. The groomsmen will be Messrs. William Belohmann. Edward L. Preetorius, Eugene Lempcke, Edward L. Preetorius, Eugene Lempcke, Edward Reuling of New York, who will be the groom's best man. The bride's little brother, Carl Ehlermann, will act as ring bearer, dressed in a black dress suit, and carrying the wedding ring upon a cushion of bride roses. The bride will wear a gown of white to buchesse satin, made very simply, the skirt en train, the bodice high, with immense puffed sleves, which will be entirely covered by a handsome imported lace veil. She will carry a white, ivory-bound prayer-book, which was given her when a child by her maternal grand-father, with a few bridal rose buds caught between the leaves. Her maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Ehlermann, who is still a school girl, will wear a pretty gown of white frosted crepe, very simply made, and carry a bouquet of maidenhair ferns tied with white ribbon. The bridemaids will all wear gowns of green frosted crepe, the bodice trimmed with pearl frimming, and finished about the neck with a crushed collar of satin. They will all carry bouquets of maidenhair ferns tied with white ribbons.

This will be a white and green wedding. The dining-room, which is furnished in white and gold, will be decorated entirely with smilax and ferns, the celling being embowered with smilax, studded with bridal roses, and the stairway garlanded with wreaths of smilax tied with white ribbon. Mrs. Ehlermann will preside at the bridal roses; and the stairway garlanded with wreaths of smilax tied with white ribbon.

Mrs. Ehlermann will preside at the bridal party, with her old friend, Dr. Ehardt, gowned in a gray, changeable slik, which was worn by her mother fifty years ago.

The reception will be held at the handsome residence of the bride's parents, No. 1605 Missouri avenue, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Their merchants buy large amounts of goods in St. Louis, and for a class of goods which these merchants do not carry their citizens generally come to St. Louis. The business done with them, although on a more extensive scale, is such as might be done between the various sections of the city. And as vapid transit and frequent cars running in from the outskirts of the city increase trade so an afternoon mall and passenger train service would increase the volume of business with these towns.

In order to show the towns which would be reached by an early afternoon train service of this kind the following list has been arranged, showing the towns and villages of any size on the various lines of railroads within a radius of about 125 miles. In one or two cases a town as far as 150 miles has been taken into account, while in others the list has stopped at a little over 100 miles, as that seemed to be the natural end to an early afternoon train service. The list is well worth perusal: That there is business enough within a

If each one of these towns did but little business with St. Louis; if an early afternoon mail and passenger service, helped to increase the business with each of these towns but little; if but a small number of people from each of these towns would be people from each of these towns would be secommodated by this improved service, it is well worth the extra expense. But when it is reasonably, if not absolutely, tertain the service would be largely and liberally patronized, would be self-supporting from the start, and nut St. Louis inerchants in closer and quicker communication with these towns, then the accessity of such a service becomes apparent to all PRESENT FOOR SERVICE.

STILL HOLDING OUT.

Only One of the Niedringhaus Mills Is Running.

The one Niedringhaus rolling-mill which was started Monday is still in operation, but The company has not yet been able to secure sufficient skilled labor to make up a night shift, and as a consequence the mill is only operated a portion of the time.

The strikers are still very firm in their decision not to accept the new scale, and have rained confidence in the large attendance at the meeting of Ivory Lodge, No. 6, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, held at Ahler's Hail, Fourteenth and Anglerodt streets, Tuesday morning, at which the terms offered by the company were discussed, and it was unanimously decided to continue the strike. Upwards of 150 members and sympathizers were present.—Mr. T. K. Niedringhaus's obviously disappointed at the failure of his efforts to secure men to take the places of the strikers. He refused to discuss the situation with press representatives and in answer to all questions returns the invariable reply: "There is nothing new and nothing more to be said." At the mills it was learned that no more men had been put to work.

HER LOYER.

A Marriega Compact Which Involved a

For a long time Roch had lived alone with his son in his house, built of reeds and stones, by the roadside, under the hill over-looking the far-off little town. He was the owner of rich lands planted with vines, both on the hillside and in the plain. Only on rare occasions he quitted his own paths to climb into the mountain woods to shoot the hare or gather mushrooms and salads. Persons sometimes came to see him, mostly on the eve of the vintage, to treat for the purpose of the fruit, which he sold on the vines for ready money, and on no other terms. At these times, after business, he would invite the dealers or his comrades to drink a bottle of wine, over which he would gravely talk about the doings of his youth, his health; all the while laughing the laugh of the master, sitting at his door in the sun, his fowls picking and becratching in the straw and dust around him.

GROCERY STORE-For sale, small grocery store: the best offer buys it; cause stekness, 1919 E. Grand av.

"We will not go into the town," said the old man. "We shall not find there what we want; the girls there are too fond of luxury and amusements. Let us try what we may see in these villages." Michel tired of these proceedings after awhile. None of the girls pleased him. He thought them all too much dressed up and too forward in their bearing. The father grumbled at the young man's ill humor and exaction.

alone. He ought to be married already. And the young wife and the new relatives would, perhaps, destroy the order and prosperity of his possessions. He would himself choose a wife for his son.

Michel bowed humbly before his father, whom he regarded as a superior being since, out of nothing, from the depths of poverty, Roch had raised himself to opulence. They went forth together at dawn one Sunday in spring. The clear sky hung over all like a robe of innocence. Fresh voices murmured in the solitude.

"We will not go into the town," said the old man. "We shall not find there on the same subjects, their labors and the easons.

On the evening of the day following hat on which he had been with his father in that strange excursion to the town and he adjacent villages, Michel met Justine he looked at each other, then suddenly lushed and their eyes grew moist with

They walked side by side.

They walked side by side.

When they were near the farm, alreading a mid the shadows that were creeping to the brow of the hill, Justine asked:

"You and your father were away from yesterday—wh?"

a wife.

"It was all nonsense," he added; "I don't what my father has been thinking of lately. I have constantly seen him, spade in hand, removing his treasures from one place to another. And now he wants me to marry—a thing I have never thought of," a look of dreamy helplessness in his eyes.

On the further side of the mountain, on the border of a torrent and shadowed by trees, stood a farmhouse poor and isolated, the only house to which Michel sometimes paid a visit. Its inhabitants were a man named Bruno, taciturn, always at work, rusted by the sun. The wife, Olympe, a dried plant of the mountain, dried up like a cinder, like her husband forever at work, sewing and tending the flowers and vegetables, then the daughter, a tall, brownhaired girl, sweet smelling as the grass about a spring, the pure and caressing growth of the peace of the fields.

This was Justine, the sunshine of the hearth, the pride of her parents. For her sake Bruno put off her taciturnity after the day's work and on Sundays went to the fetes exhibiting his heiress dressed in bright-colored gowns, with gold chains about her neck, the jewelry of a long-forgot ten grandmother. Justine was not yet 20, and there had been no thought of marrying her. Michel and Justine had grown up to-gether on the same soil. They regarded each other as if they had been old people, talking and laughing together without re-straint, their conversation tways turning.

story of the pilgrimage in search of

My father esteems you; he will only do as I wish."

And he departed. Justine saw him through the shadows mounting the hill path. He walked quickly, agitated by his new suffering. For the first time in his life he thought things no longer appeared to him as they had hitherto appeared.

A voice spoke to him confusedly, awaking dreams in his soul, a joy in his fiesh. He also felt a fear. He tried to drive away the memory of Justine, but this memory clung to him, went before him, shining like a tender light. In his absorption he went by the gate of his father's inclosure. On discovering what he had done he ran back, entered the cottage hurriedly, and, face to face with his father, felt as if he had suddenly been turned into a block of ice. Roch scolded.

Suicide Committed in the Office of the Enterprise Brick Co.

HE IS THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN BUF-PERING FROM MENTAL ABERRATION.

His Family Tried to Have Him Declared Intane-The Proceedings Against Him Caused Violent Demestic Sterms Apparently in Good Spirits a Shor Time Before Killing Himself.

hn F. Scherpe, President of the Enterise Brick Works Co. and for many years ident of the large iron firm of Scherpe & Koken, committed suicide at 9:45 a. m. by shooting himself through the head. Desdency resulting from his recent sensa tional domestic troubles is believed to be tional domestic troubles is believed to be responsible for his rash act.

Scherpe left his palatial home at 1618 South Compton avenue about three months ago and went to live with his sister, Mrs. Clara Hamill, at 2956 Henrietta street, whose son, T. C. Hamill, was Secretary of the brick works company. Since his so-journ at the Hamill home it has been his custom to leave home every morning about 3 o'clock for a ride on horseback. This morning he left astride his favorite steed as usual and rode straight out to the brick works, which are located adjoining the tracks of the Oak Hill branch of the Missouri Pacific Railroad about 300 yards southeast of the corner of King's highway and Arsenal street.

PISTOL REPORT.

He went into the little frame structure that served as an office and began looking over the books. He had been in there alone a little over an hour when the employes were startled to hear three shots ring out within the little office. Mr. Hamill rushed to the office, gave one quick glance inside and then, deathly pale, rushed to Mr. H. C. Pahl, the manager of the plant, and said:

"That can't be," said Mr. Pahl; "I saw "Tha

"Oh, Mr. Pahl, my uncle has shot himself."
"That can't be." said Mr. Pahl; "I saw him about an hour ago and he seemed in the best of spirits."
Together they went to the office and there round Mr. Scherpe stretched out on the floor with his head in one pool of blood and his heels in another. Blood was spurting from three ugly wounds in his right temple. He gasped a few times, but never uttered a word. One bullet in the ceiling and another in the wall showed that two of the balls must have glanced off, but the third evidently plowed its way right into his brain. A 32-calibre revolver lay beside his prostrate form, with three of its chambers empty. He was rather plainly dressed in a gray busines suit, a light-colored neglige shirt and a blue bow the of polka dot pattern.

His face was besmeared and the small black whiskers on his chin matted with blood.

REMAINS COVERED.

When he was quite dead Mr. Pahl tovered the body with a cloth and laid the remains in a corner of the office while Mr. Hamill went down town to make arrangements for the funeral.

His body was stilllying in the office when a Post-Dispatch reporter called there at noon. Mr. Pahl, who sat in a chair near by said: "This is a terrible shock to us. Mr. Scherpe was the President of our company, but only visited the place occasionally. This is the only time he has been here this week.

A call at the Scherpe home on Compton avenue elicited a reply from a member of the family that he had nothing to say.

PROODED OVER HIS TROUBLES.

Mrs. Hamill, when seen at her home on

Mrs. Hamill, when seen at her home or Henrietta street, was weeping bitterly 'Mr. Scherpe has been feeling very blue,' said she, "for the past week, but I could no get him to tell me what the trouble was tet him to tell me what the trouble was, it must have been that he brooded over his roubles with his wife and family until life became a burden to him. He never gave me or my son any intimation that he inended to kill himself."

Mr. Scherpe's troubles with his wife and amily were of a rather sensational nature. They had him arrested about two months ago and tried to have him declared insane, but in this they were unsuccessful.

they found a man, hatless and shoeless, in the room, the door of which was open. The man, who claimed his name was John Hiller, and that he was a waiter, was taken into custody, and about this time a confederate on the look-out made his escape. The family was aroused, but search of the house revealed nothing to show that anything had been stolen.

Miller was questioned closely by Capt. O'Malley, but he could not be induced to reveal anything. He said he did not know the name of his confederate only that his first hame was Mike. Miller says he has been in St. Louis only three days and that he pame from the East, but from what city he refuses to state. The police believe that Miller and his pal had just gained entrance to the house, when surprised by the police. The door found open was unlocked from the inside.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY.

Enicide of Salesman Linsley of Hyman berg & Co. at Chiengo.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.-The suicide of M. G. Linsley, the salesman of Hymanberg & Co., jewelers, is surrounded by mystery. Lins-ley was prominent in social circles and commanded a large salary. A story of a $30,culated in connection with the suicide, but culated in connection with the suicide, but the members of the firm emphatically denied that any robbery had occurred. They declared that Linsley's accounts were straight and that there is no foundation for the rumor that his suicide was the result of large thefts.

The body of Linsley was found in Lake Michigan to-day at the foot of Ninety-first street. The appearance of the body indicated that it had been in the water for several days, and as Linsley was seen Friday evening, he is supposed to have drowned himself Friday night or Saturday morning.

The Greenwood Land Co., who own a large tract of land on the railroad tracks beyond the city limits, have changed the name of the corporation from the Greenwood Land Co. to Maplewood Land Co. Messrs. Eugene Williams and Hill and O'Meara have been sold some of the stock and bonds of the company. The cash acquired by the sales will be expended in improving a portion of the property with streets and sidewalks.

Rowse & Hopkins, successors to the E. S. Rowse Real Estate Agency, have leased the second floor of the Columbia Euilding, at the corner Eighth and Locust streets, the rooms formerly occupied by the Spanish Club, and will remove their office to this location Jan. 1.

DYE-HOUSE FRAUD.

Chirg, Made Against Adolph Fisher by

Frank Cook. Adolph Fisher, a young man about 20 years old, was arrested at 11 o'clock this morning in the Four Courts by Detective morning in the Four Courts by Detective Ziegler. The arrest was made at the instance of Frank Cook, who lives at 2719 Gravols avenue. Cook claims that Fisher called at his house during his absence last Friday a week ago and represented that he was soliciting work for a dye-house. Mrs. Cook gave him a dress and cloak, Cook said, and Fisher agreed to return the garments cleaned on the following Wednesday. Since then he has not called around with the wearing apparel, Cook stated, and refused to say where the dye-house for which he worked was located. Detective Ziegler thinks Fisher has extensively employed this scheme. A warrant charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses was sworn out against Fisher.

Otto Sasse and William Finkston Charged With Burglary.

Otto Sasse and William Pinkston were ar rested near the Water Tower Tuesday for sing implicated in an attempt to rob a farmer. When searched a lot of jewelry, allyerware and other property was found in their possession. Later Robert Bagnet, who lives on the Bellefontaine road, identified the property as having been stolen from his residence several nights ago.

Charges of burglary and larceny were preferred against the men. Two of the basse loys are now in the penitentiary while another and Jim French are fugitives from justice.

MANAMAN MANAMAN BUNCOED BY BANKS.

Reaching Into the Treasury for the Gold Reserve.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.-Uncle Sam got another severe jostling in Wall Street yesterday, and before the bankers allowed him to quit business they had pulled out of his carpet bag $1,600,000 in gold. Those who did the jostling and the amounts they got, as reported by Assistant Treasurer Jordan late to-day are: National Bank of the Republic (for the Mercantile Trust Co. of Baltimore), $125,000; Central National Bank, $500,000; Watson Bros., $300,-000; National Bank of the Republic (for Re-vere National Bank of Boston), $100,000; National Bank of the Republic (for Mer-ver National Bank of Boston), $100,000; National Bank of the Republic (for Merchants' National Bank of Boston), $100,000; Empire State Bank, $25,000; National Bank of the Republic (for J. Pierrepont Edwards), $50,000.

One New York Bank, the name of which was not telegraphed by the Assistant Treasurer, drew $400,000. This brings the total of gold taken out during the past four days to $4,650,600.

Mr. Carlisle would not discuss the action of the New York Banks, but it was said today by an official close to the Secretary that if the issue is over-subscribed and Mr. Carlisle is able, without loss to the Government, to throw out the bids of the banks which have drawn on the Treasury gold he will do so. The Treasury is much worked up over what is regarded as a breach of faith on the part of the banks, and there is no doubt that Mr. Carlisle is disposed to add some retailiatory plan. The Secretary feels sure now that the issue will be largely over-subscribed, as bids are coming in at a rapid rate.

No one believes, not even the Secretary that the Government will realize enough from this loan to boost the reserve to the $100,000,000 point. The most sanguine of the Treasury officials hope that $30,000,000 will be realized. It is now admitted that the innovation in the call for proposals that gives the bankers an opportunity to secure the bonds on the Installment plan was a mistake. The President and Mr. Carlisle were convinced that this arrangement would attractive form:

If the full amount of gold for the bonds is demanded when the bids are accepted, the banks will surely raild the reserve for a large share of the gold, as they cannot afford to surrender all their buildion. If fifty days are allowed in which to pay gold for the bonds the foreign bidders will have an opportunity to show bankers. Mr. Cleveland thought this a great discovery, and Mr. Carlisle thought so, too, and so it was embodied in the call.

How beautifully the theory has worked out is illustrated in the experience of the Carlisie thought so, too, and so it was embodied in the call.

How beautifully the theory has worked out is illustrated in the experience of the Treasury during the past five days. No gold has been exported by foreign bankers, and thus far there has been little or no indication that many investors abroad will be attracted. It is pointed out that if there is any large demand from abroad the gold will be obtained in this country, as the prevailing rates of exchange are decidedly unfavorable to gold importations. It begins to look now as though bond issues were to furnish the surest means of depleting, rather than replenishing, the gold reserve.

HUNTING HIS FATHER.

But Wille Kelly Could Give No Descrip tion of His Parent. When Willie Kelly, a bright 12-year-old messenger boy, had delivered a message at the Drummond Tobacco Factory Tuesday, he inquired if "John Kelly was working

"What do you want with him?" he wa "He's my father," was the reply

"He's my father," was the reply.

"What kind of a looking fellow is he? What work does he do here? We have 300 people in the factory."

"I don't know; I ain't seen him," was Willie's surprising statement, "and I just want to see him."

He was directed to the watchman for assistance in locating his lost parent, but the little fellow left the building without pursuing the search for his father any further. Willie's explanation of what had the earmarks of a fin de slecle story, the little fellow said that he "just wanted to see his father." When pressed for more information about himself and lost parent, his manner indicated that he was afraid that there was trouble in store for him.

"Is it anything serious, mister? I'll tell you all about it. A fellow's got a right to see his father. I guess, even if his folks are divorced. That was in December. Near a year ago. My ma told me that he was working at Drummond's and so did Mrs. Howard. I board with her. You see since the split up between ma and pa, she's been cooking at 383 Delmar boulevard and I'ye been working. I was at Penny & Gentles, and have been with the St. Louis Messenger & Cab Co. for three months. There are five of us children. I am 12 and the oldest. My sister is in Chicago, two of the other children are in the St. Joseph Orphan Asylum, and the baby, who is in East St. Louis, its going there too, Sunday after next. You see my father, who drove a milk wagon once and worked on the Street Department, got full and beat me and ma, and the Judge fined him $15, and he went to the work-house. Then ma got her divorce. I meant that he sometimes wears a mustache and sometimes he didn't, and how could it tell what he looks like?" and sometimes he didn't, and how could I tell what he looks like?"

Kaiser and H. inze Frotest Their Innocince of the Brown Murder.

Henry Kaiser and Jacob Heinze, whose entence of death for the murder of Edwin E. Brown on the night of March 3, 1893, were affiremed by the Supreme Court, were seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter in jail. They declined to talk regarding their case other than to assert their innocence. Kai-other than to assert their innocence, Kaiser said that the action of the Supreme Court was a surprise to him, as he expected a reversal.

"I am no more guilty of that crime," said he to the reporter, "than you are."

He was asked if any steps in regard to bringing the matter before the Governor had been taken and replied that nothing had been done as yet, as they had not seen their lawyers since the Supreme Court's decision.

Heinse said he had nothing to say further than what Kaiser had said he es-they had seen their lawyers. Judge Krum and Attorney John Duggan defended the and Attorney John Duggan defended the men.

Katser bears his fate quite well and smiled as he bade the reporter good-bye. Heinze wore a more grave aspect, but was yery courteous, as was also Kaiser, in speaking to the reporter.

Brown was a well-to-do stock-dealer doing business at the Union Stock Yards, and lived on Morgan street, near Cardinal avenue. He wass widower and was way-laid and robbed on Franklin avenue, near Garrison, and by three men who beat him so brutally that he died shortly after. Kaiser, Heinze and Charle McDonald were arrested on suspicion. McDonald was acquitted at the trial.

ILLEGALITY OF THEET BROKERAGE.

Mourt VESSOS, Ill., Nov. 21-Judge Pren-dergast, on ushalt of the ticket brokers of Chicago and of the United States, has predergast, on usual of the ticket brokers of Chicago and of the United States, has presented to the Supreme Court the petition of Geo. R. Stekings and others, ticket brokers, to strike out, annul and expunge from the records of the Supreme Court the opinion field by the Court on april 2, 1894, in the cases arown as Bardick vs. the People, etc., in which the court decided that the statute for utains ticket brokerage was constitutional. The basis tof Judge Prendergast's application, as set forth in the petition, is that the Burdiek case was fictitious, and coliusive. The charge is that the railroad companies concepted the Burdiek case to obtain this decidien, by them controlling both sides of the case. The Supreme Court took the petition under consideration.

of Rubinstein, the celebrated pianist and composer, which occurred on Tuesday morning at Feterhof, was unexpected. He morning at Feterhof, was unexpected. He was playing cards until 11 o'clock and was in the best of spirits. His wife at about midnight went to his room to bid him good night. Rubinstein then appeared to be enjoying his usual health. At about 2 o'clock in the morning Mme: Rubinstein heard cries from the direction of her husband's bed room, and running to his door, she found him standing up near the entrance with a led cover around his shoulders. He was crying with pain, and gasped: "A doctor, a doctor; I am choking." Two physicians were hastily summoned, but all their efforts to save the sufferer's life were unavailing, and he died in their presence.

FOUGHT THIRTEEN ROUNDS.

Phillips Defeats Wright in a Finish Fight Tuesday Night.

Franklin avenue on Tuesday night. Bully Henderson refereed the fight, which was given to Phillips in the thirteenth round, when Wright threw up the sponge. The darkies battled for a purse of $20, of which the darkies battled for a purse of $30, of which the loser was generously given the magnificent sum of $5 to console himself with. Phillips weighed about ien pounds more than Wright and had the best of him in both height and reach. In the first fire rounds very little flubting was done by either man. Wright then commenced to force matters, but this cost him the battle, as Phillips was in better condition, and as soon as his opponent got him warmed up he soon had Wright on the run. From the fifth to the tenth round the negroes fought fast and furious, but the pace proved too hot for Wright and is the next three rounds he got sittle worst of it. Very little eleverness was displayed by either principal and, according to a spectator, the most interesting feature of the contest was the gameness of Wright, who tooks some had punching in a manner surprising for an relinary heater. Although Wright's face was budly amolien, neither principal was sweetly pushed. The affair was severely pushed. The affair was severely pushed.
